Improving posteriors

One of the fastest-growing procedures at Sunset Cosmetic Surgery has been the Brazilian butt lift. The procedure reshapes the buttocks using a combination of fat grafting and liposculpting. The results? A perkier backside. Popular with women and men who are bothered by their sagging or flat buttocks, the procedure first involves extracting fat from two or three areas of the body. The fat is then purified and injected into the areas of the buttocks that need additional volume. "Squats and lunges can help, but are usually not enough for a patient considering this procedure," says Dr. Yamini. Liposuction of the lower back and hips can be performed to enhance the effect. "I just had a mother and daughter come in to have this procedure done together," recalls Dr. Svehlak.

STEVEN SVEHLAK, MD, FACS

Rounder, uplifted and more pronounced, this 38-year-old patient's curvier backside is the result of a Brazilian butt lift and liposculpting, which she underwent to feel sexier and less "boyish."

DANIEL YAMINI, MD, FACS

Liposuction of the abdomen and waist were combined with a Brazilian butt lift to add curves and give the patient the more feminine shape she wanted.
